

Banks & Financial Institutions

The lawyers at Bouhan Falligant have extensive experience representing financial institutions in connection with the structure, documentation and consummation of complex loan transactions, including commitment letters, letters of credit and collateral documentation. Related issues include the review or preparation of leases, title reports and certificates of title and participation agreements. In addition to commercial lending, Bouhan Falligant represents and advises numerous lenders on a wide range of commercial and consumer loan transactions. We also advise our financial institution clients regarding special asset issues, including debt restructuring, forbearance agreements, bankruptcy matters and related creditors rights and credit/collection issues. The firm works closely with management and boards of directors on matters of corporate governance and shareholder relations. Finally, Bouhan Falligant handles the acquisition, divestiture or formation of specific assets or subsidiaries, including branches and single purpose divisions or subsidiaries.
