Bouhan Falligant LLP Selects Shayna Bowen As New Managing Partner

SAVANNAH, GA - The partners of Bouhan Falligant LLP have elected Shayna A. Bowen as the firm's next managing partner. Bowen has been with the firm since 2019 and served on its management committee since 2024.

As managing partner, Bowen will oversee the firm's day-to-day operations, talent strategy, and execution of the firm's strategic plan.

Bowen succeeds Melanie L. Marks, who has served as managing partner since 2019. The firm offers its sincere gratitude to Marks for her exemplary leadership. Under her guidance, Bouhan Falligant achieved significant milestones and continued its reputation for excellence.

“Melanie has been a trusted colleague and an exceptional leader whose judgment, integrity, and strategic insight have shaped Bouhan's growth,” said Bowen. “With her stewardship through the years, including navigating a global pandemic, her pro bono service to the community, and her contributions to the development of our renowned vision and strategy, Marks demonstrated a deep commitment to our team, our clients, and the Savannah community. I look forward to continuing to work with her and thank her for her service to our firm."

Bouhan Falligant LLP has a proud history of providing excellent legal services to clients throughout the Southeast and the world for over 130 years. With each change in leadership, the firm has emerged stronger and with greater resolve, continuing its tradition of providing comprehensive and diverse legal services to its clients through a hardworking team of attorneys and staff committed to each client's success.

Exemplified by the selection of Bowen, the firm reinforces its unique combination of time-tested experience and teamwork from its veteran attorneys and the innovation of its younger members, providing clients with the distinct advantage that, as history has proven, will stand the test of time.

"I am honored by the trust and confidence my partners have placed in me. Bouhan Falligant has an extraordinary culture, a clear strategic vision, and a century-long track record of client-focused excellence. I look forward to working with our management committee and our broader team as we continue into the new year," said Shayna Bowen.

Shay Bowen is a corporate and transactional attorney with deep experience helping organizations navigate corporate, regulatory, and operational issues. She supports clients across industries with formation and governance matters, strategic transactions, and the full spectrum of ongoing business needs. She enjoys serving as a strategic partner to clients, developing creative approaches to complex challenges, and helping organizations move through periods of change with confidence and clarity. A core focus of her practice is representing healthcare providers. In her healthcare work, she routinely assists clients with practice acquisitions and sales, governance matters, employment and professional services arrangements, regulatory compliance, and day-to-day operational issues. She delivers solutions that balance legal risk with the practical realities of running a healthcare business in a highly regulated environment.
