

Malpractice & Professional Liability

For more than 50 years, Bouhan Falligant attorneys have defended healthcare providers, law firms, and engineering firms against claims of professional malpractice. The Bouhan Falligant professional malpractice team has extensive experience handling complex malpractice claims at all stages, from pre-suit investigations, to trial court litigation, and post-judgment appeals. The team's success and longevity is derived from its attorneys' unique understanding of Georgia professional liability law, their tireless attention to detail, and their willingness to learn the professions of those they defend through exhaustive research and communication with clients and experts.
